

Pilot Error: Who, Me?

This interactive seminar is designed to help pilots attain a good understanding of the risks associated with surface navigation. It is intended to provide pilots with basic information with respect to safely operating on the surface of both towered and non-towered airports. We all have had moments where we are left scratching our heads and wondering "what just happened?" If you have ever experienced the "it could have been me" moment, then this seminar is for you.
